

LIEUTENANT COMMANDER RILI'L, STARFLEET INTELLIGENCE OFFICER (NOTABLE NPC)

SPECIES: Xyrillian

RANK: Lieutenant Commander

DEPARTMENT: Starfleet Intelligence

TRAITS: Xyrillian. Xyrillians do not have a metabolism based on water. They breathe a high-pressure, non-oxygen-based atmosphere that has a hallucinogenic effect on most other species, unless they are weaned onto and off their atmosphere. They eat vegetation grown in their ships, which also generate gases that help their metabolism. They can pass electricity via touch, creating a pleasant and painless sensation. They have dermal plating used for detecting Xyrillian moods. Xyrillians have smooth, scaly and hairless brown skin, and they often have large green eyes. Xyrillian females pass genetic materials to males (not necessarily of their own species) through physical contact, and Xyrillian males have a pouch on the upper chest to bring offspring to term.

TALENTS

Xyrillian Holographic Expertise: Xyrillians are experts in holo-technology. When Rili'L attempts a Task that involves holographic technology (including programming), she may reroll her dice pool.

Xyrillian Technology: After contact with the Federation, Xyrillians have used their advanced technological knowledge to make it easier for them to interact with other interstellar species. Rili'L owns a Xyrillian pressure suit that provides her with the atmosphere that Xyrillians require, equivalent to an environmental suit (Resistance 1). She also owns a Xyrillian holographic imager. Lastly, Rili'L has a Xyrillian telepathic granule game that permits person-to-person telepathy between a Xyrillian and another consenting player (Opportunity 1 cost per telepathic contact; as Betazoid Telepath, but only with the person playing the game with her, who does not need to be Xyrillian but must consent to the telepathic contact).

BACKGROUND AND PERSONALITY

Rili'L (pronounced re-LILL) was born on a Xyrillian colony world, and learned much about holographic systems from her father. Despite the difficulties a Xyrillian might face when not in their natural environment, Rili'L overcame those obstacles and excelled at Starfleet Academy. Her first assignment was aboard the U.S.S. Touchstone, where she gained much experience in the field and earned accolades for her skills in data analysis and expertise in sensor systems. She was recruited by Starfleet Intelligence because of those skills.

After some special missions and desk assignments, Rili'L is looking forward to serving aboard a ship again as a Chief Intelligence Officer, and hopes to get to know her fellow shipmates despite the differences between her species and the majority of Federation species.

Rili'L is loyal to Starfleet Intelligence. Like others of her species, she will act and ask forgiveness later, and is content to stay out of the limelight and do her work behind the scenes.
