

HOH'SUS-CLASS FLEET BIRD-OF-PREY

Klingon Starship

Entered Service: 2409

Overview: The compact HoH'SuS-class bird-of-prey was originally designed as a companion vessel to the massive Bortasqu'-class war cruiser, a mobile raider that could be launched from the belly of the dreadnought like a trained hawk released by a charging warrior. It is an unusual design and not as sturdy as other birds-of-prey but the speed that the Imperial shipyards can produce HoH'SuS-class vessels means that it is now produced independently.

Capabilities: In concert with the Bortasqu'-class war cruiser, the HoH'SuS-class raider functions well as a harassing vessel that can draw and dodge fire while the heavier cruiser exploits openings. On its own, however, the HoH'SuS class normally functions in a reconnaissance role, moving quickly under cloak to supply battle data.
