

SOMRAW-CLASS RAPTOR

Klingon Starship

Entered Service: 2151

The first of the Klingon Empire's far-reaching starships, Somraw-class vessels served the Klingons throughout the 22nd century. They were named for the planet of Somraw, then a farflung colony on the edge of Klingon space, and represented the promise of new frontiers and conquests for ambitious warriors. This spaceframe saw service through the early days of the Federation, the primary vessel which carried the Empire's warnings to the fledgling alliance. It continued to serve for many decades before being replaced by the larger battlecruisers of the late 23rd century.
