Traits: Gorn Cruiser, Support Craft

Overview: Largely succeeded by the Varanus-class, the Draguas-class support vessels are slightly larger and bulkier than the Varanus, being a good 40 meters longer. As support vessels, Draguas ships are seldom seen alone, typically accompanying the more combat oriented ships, such as the Ahgamias and the aforementioned Varanus.

Capabilities: Planned as battleships, the design proved too large and inefficient for the Gorn, and was replaced only a few years after their launch. The size and lack of armour plating left the large and slow vessels more vulnerable than desired, so their next generation of starship incorporated duranium hull plating. The remaining Draguas were moved to support roles where their lesser defences would not be a liability, assisting Varanus and Vishap vessels. And by the 2380s, the Draguas-class was removed from active duty, being held in relief for times of open conflict.
